

Interior Images Inc.

Canyon Vista Rehabilitation Center

LAS VEGAS

Dining room with attached nutrition/food service. Photo: Larry Falke Photography.

Large, state-of-the-art rehabilitation center. Photo: Larry Falke Photography.

The country is starving for state of the art skilled nursing facilities such as the newly constructed Canyon Vista Rehab Center located next to the Southern Hills Hospital in Las Vegas, NV. It is a 120 bed facility that is focused solely on the rehabilitation of its residents with an emphasis on returning them home as quickly as possible. It was designed to include the features that are most in demand by the 77 million retiring Baby Boomers such as; private bedrooms with private bathrooms that include private showers, restaurant style dining along with a large, state of the art, occupational/physical therapy center. Although larger than most, the facility is designed into 4 managed neighborhoods that branch off of the central lobby, rehab center, offices and kitchen. Each neighborhood has its own dining room with an attached food service/nutrition room for between meals, snacks, its own activities space and centralized nurses' station. Finally, the Boomer generation has access to something their parents never did; a non-institutional environment built to heal and leave.

DESIGN TEAM:

Cheryl Sanders, interior designer, ASID, CID, principal; Suzanne Garcia, senior designer, CID; Robin Shekels, interior designer; Theresa Timms, interior designer, CAD drafts person (Interior Images Inc.); Joshua Crawford, AIA, lead architect (Nexus Architects); Ledcor (general contractor); OCHOA Development Corp. (developer)

CONTACT:

Cheryl Sanders
 cheryl@interiorimagesinc.com
 (714) 692-2211
 www.interiorimagesinc.com

Neighborhood 4 nurses' station. Photo: Larry Falke Photography.

Private patient bathroom with shower. Photo: Larry Falke Photography.